ABOUT PLAYING FOR CHANGE FOUNDATION

The Playing For Change Foundation, established in 2007, provides free music education in areas that are culturally rich yet economically challenged. Thus far, the PFC Foundation's 15 music schools and programs have helped enrich the lives of over 20,000 children and their surrounding communities in Argentina, Bangladesh, Brazil, Ghana, Mali, Mexico, Morocco, Nepal, Rwanda, South Africa and Thailand. Children in these countries around the world, attend free classes in music and arts education, taught by qualified local music teachers and led by regional administrators. Students learn about their own cultural traditions while employing technology to connect and share their experiences with others around the world.
